General Synopsis for Episode #1119

In this episode spotlighting budding filmmakers and movie critics, committed and talented ‘Young Icons’ share their stories of success. The guests open up the personal side of their journey and what made them decide to pursue their goals. Fourteen-year-old actor and film director Matthew J. Evans wants to teach and inspire people through his work. He has appeared on Drake and Josh and Zoey 101 shows. He is working on his 4th film about his good friend Woody Duffy who was diagnosed with a rare disease called MPS1. He is making the film to educate the public and raise funds for MPS1. Matthew wants the audience to understand that you should always have hope and that the right thing will always happen. Filmmaker, Regina Nicholson, has turned tragedy into triumph. She used her faith and filmmaking as a healing process through treatments for bone cancer by creating the film ‘Glimpse Of Horizon’. She now helps a charity called, No Worries Now to provide a voice for other children who are ill. Perry Chin is the youngest credentialed film critic. He appreciates the lessons he has learned from writing over 50 movie reviews using his own 1 - 5 starfish rating system. He wants the audience to know ‘you are never too young to start pursuing your passion or dreams’. Movie reviewers and siblings Riley and Cole McNamara created KidsPickFlicks.com as a forum for kids to review movies. Cole feels that kids should be able to give their opinion about a movie. Their website features interviews by Riley and other movie news.
